

Wearing Your Good Feet Arch Supports

Everyone adjusts at their own pace, so listen to your body. Some adapt quickly, others need more time. Mild pressure or soreness is normal (and temporary), signaling your muscles are adapting.

Stay consistent, use Maintainers or Relaxers for comfort as needed, and know early questions are common. Your Good Feet Arch Support Specialist is always here to help.

Adjustment Period Schedule

This schedule is provided as an example of a gradual adjustment process. Individual tolerance varies. Users should progress based on personal comfort and may advance more slowly or more quickly. No minimum or maximum wear duration is required. Start slow and increase based on how your feet feel:

- Begin with up to 30 minutes
- Gradually build to 1 hour (and beyond)
- Once adjusted, wear them comfortably during daily activities
